LOCAL MATTERS.

AN ACCIDENT THAT WASN'T AN ACCIDENT. on yesterday afternoon about 1 o'clock our tizens were startled with a rumor that the ispatch reporter immediately hurried to bot, and was told by Mr. McNaherny, western entrance, that it was deciore of a scare than a hurt. While subting that gentleman's word, our representative preferred to go in and look for After a scramble through the dark, n which he lost his note-book and lead penil, and came near breaking his neck, the spatch man came upon a working party in twenty men, who were busily enraged reinforcing the track laid with heavy Upon inquiry, and after careful camination, it was found that about a space of lifteen or twenty feet of the road bed was rather loose and insecure, which caused the sides to erack and the track-bed to bulge slightly. There had been no eaving nor any accident whatever that we could discover. Heavy timbers were laid parallel with the track along the insecure space, and eross these timbers were laid heavy sills. The road bed and track was reinstated upon this strong sub-structure, and at 10 o'clock last evening the track was perfectly clear following was the order of exercises: Serfrom one end of the tunnel to the other.

DEAD AND UNKNOWN .- Just before o'clock vesterday morning, as the eastwardbound express train on the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad was between Wiekham's and Hanover Courthouse, the engineer noticed something lying across the track which he bok to be a calf, and he immediately put on the brakes and tried to stop the train, but owing to the train being so close on it and running at such speed it could not be stopped. It struck the object and knocked it on one side of the track. The train was stopped as soon as possible, and on going He is now supplying the pulpit at Hampback found the object to be a white man, ton, and will return to the Seminary next who was found to be dead and very badly mutilated, the stomach being torn open. It is thought that the man fell off of another train and was so badly hurt as not to be able to get off the track in time for the express. The body was turned over to a section-master, and it now awaits identification.

DEAD BODY IDENTIFIED. - The dead body found in the dock on Saturday has been identified as that of William Metlach, the fireman of the Wyanoke, and not the pilot, as was first supposed. He leaves a wife and Appeals. Mr. Christian received a number of bids, but he was unable, in so short a one child, and was an Odd-Fellow in good SUDDEN DEATH .- Captain James B. Coles died very suddenly at his residence, on Grace between Twenty-fifth and Twentysixth streets, on yesterday afternoon. Deceased was a highly-esteemed citizen, and married a sister of Hon. Shelton F. Leake. Sulphur Springs in search of health and rest.

A DESPERATE CHARACTER.-Hezekiah Johnston (colored) was arrested yesterday, after considerable difficulty, upon a charge of trespassing upon the premises of G. (not Gilbert) Walker, and trying to cut off a policeman's head with an axe. Hezekiah will

day morning a child four years old was brought to the Medical College free dispensary to have a button removed from its ear. The mother of the child stated that about a month ago, upon returning home from her work, she found that her child had got a button in its ear. She immediately carried the child to a physician, who failed to remove the foreign obstruction (called in comhad suffered intense agony. Dr. P. S. Jeter, surgeon in charge of the dispensary, assisted by Dr. James D. Moncure, made a careful examination, and found that the button had been punched through the tympanum, and was tightly wedged in the internal ear. The child was put under the influence of chloroform, and after repeated attempts the button was removed. The button was the size of an ordinary cherry-stone. The child is now doing well.

Its system is so perfect, its objects so pure, and those who rington (in the absence of President Merehave charge of it are so endeared to our peoin war and in peace, that its annual "exhibi tions" prove among the most interesting of our educational reunions. On yesterday the spacious hall of the asylum was filled to overflowing, and many of our best citizens were present; among whom we noticed Governor Kemper, Mayor Keiley, Justice White, and Messrs. John Gibbons (brother to the Bishop) and George Swarbrick, of New Orleans; while the Catholic clergy was represented by Bishop Gibbons, Fathers Janssens and Moore.

The hall was handsomely decorated, and presented a brilliant appearance. It may well worthy of special notice that the good Sisters of Charity who have charge of this institution have under their care some Mr. Bass presented report of Committee they not only support and educate but supply with good homes when they have completed their education. ple by their acts of benevolence and charity ADDRESSES BY THE BISHOP AND THE GOV-ERNOR.

The Bishop then briefly addressed the audience and pupils, expressing himself very much edified and pleased at the beautiful and entertaining exhibition he had just witnessed. He felt that he had reason to be proud of the schools of the Church. There were now one thousand children daily attending the Catholic schools of Richmond. Of all of them, however, this was the most favored. It was established forty years ago, and had grown and prospered with the city, and the great number of children which had been educated there by the good Sisters had been and were now ornaments to society and blessings to the community at large. The Bishop expressed his sixty-five or seventy orphan children, whom satisfaction at the presence of such an audience, and was particularly glad to see his Excellency the Governor, upon whom he

> Governor Kemper ascended the platform, and spoke eloquently and feelingly in relation to the entertainment, the school, and the good Sisters. In witnessing the ceremonies just concluded he had received far greater pleasure than words could express. He would in gratitude make some return, but it was almost wholly out of his power. He was impressed in his mind that the young ladies had been obedient, cheerful, and good learners. They were drinking learning from a pure and good fountain, and were now passing through the most interesting and practical periods of their lives. Every one was the architect of their own fortunes, and as in proportion to the manner they took advantage of their present opportunities, so they would reap the benefits.

> The Governor concluded by recounting a most interesting incident of his own life, which occurred during the late war at the memorable battle of Gettysburg, where, sorely wounded, with no hope of life, he had been ministered to and attended by the good Sisters of Emmettsburg, and, with the assistance of Divine Providence, brought back to life and health.

At the conclusion of these addresses the children filed out of the hall in the same order they had entered, and the audience dispersed.
